

Press Release – 18th March 2011

Staverton Flying School moves to new purpose built hangar

Long established flying club, Staverton Flying School, has moved from its familiar spot on Bamfurlong Lane to a new large purpose built hangar within the Airport complex. To accompany this move, they have re-branded and launched a new website that will now allow customers to buy on-line.

Kathryn Williams, company owner, said 'We have been very much looking forward to moving to our new premises. We have invested in technology that will benefit all our members, and look forward to expanding our business there.'

The flying club, which has been in operation since 1965, now has all the latest modern facilities, and still possesses an enviable position with which to overlook the airfield. Despite the current economic climate, the flying club is continuing to expand, having taken on another two flying instructors.

For more details visit Staverton Flying School's website www.stavertonflyingschool.co.uk