

Press Release – Coney Hill School Visit

Pupils from Coney Hill were up, up and away at a visit to Gloucestershire Airport. Students and staff from Coney Hill Community Primary School had a look at the Staverton airport's aircraft and its fire service.

Teacher Gemma Weyman said: "At school the children have been learning on the theme of up, up and away and so a visit to the airport seemed like the best idea. They had a brilliant time and they were shocked at the number of different types of plane".

But when they were asked about their favourite moment there was only one highlight. "The fire chief at the airport stood a distance from the fire truck to show them how far the water would spray and he got soaked which was everyone's favourite bit."
